Every single one of us has a different perspective on what Interior Design means. We value the fact that every individual has a different subjective. An interior designer that desires to succeed must be capable of creating several element combinations to create an immense variety of quality environments. And to fully accomplish this needs to be open to merge his/her ideas with the homeowners' taste, perspective and objectives.

Understatement Versus A Sense of Overstatement in the House

There is white, there is black and maybe some colours. There are textures, there are metals, there are patterns. And all together create a different environment, something else than people are used to, something new and good. A game of colours, a game of shadows and a game of textures – all this create the perfect space for a game of light.

At first, you will think it is all based on white and black, but then you are surprised by the concept of X.anthology. We all know that details make the difference. Even if the walls are entirely white or combined with black interventions and the furniture is also white or black, there are plenty of colourful details, such as paintings, chairs, decorations, carpets or even a wall from a room has a different colour. All these Interior Design are meant to give life to the space, to bring some elegant vibes and create an unpredictable environment.

This is perfectly demonstrated in the HDB apartment at Anchorvale Crescent. People will come in and they will see something so new that they will not have time to think about what is in the next room.

The 5-bedroom HDB Flats offer a much bigger workspace featuring a design of Understatement versus a sense of Overstatement in the house, but you can make it even more spacious with few modifications. There is something beautiful in open spaces too: they create the idea of a larger space and give people an impression of freedom. The big windows are specially designed for a greater amount of natural light. In addition, they offer an unobstructed view of the outside surroundings, which is a big advantage, because nowadays people are looking for beautiful views and nice spots to create memories.

The whole idea was craft by Earth Interior Design to create something that fits every culture and something who has global appeal. They used symmetry to create a balance, white and black to create elegance, and colours to create life, different materials and textures were used to keep everything far from looking predictable.

This Gesture is Intended to Create Visual Order and Reduce Distraction

Home is where you can find peace and where you can relax. Based on the Kyklos concept, the house is designed to keep your mind open, stay free, and keep distractions away. It's not difficult to design the perfect house, which can become the ideal home if you care about the colours you use, the patterns you choose, and the details that will make it both pleasant and warm.

In this case, a lot of white was used for the mind to be clean and fresh. White is such a luminous and peaceful colour. White is known to be the colour that reflects light equally over all wavelengths of the visible spectrum.

So, it is a good thing when we are looking for a bright home and as much natural light as possible. Big windows are used in this case precisely for the same reason: to offer more natural light and a magnificent view. Take a glance at this beautiful design concept in the 3+1 Bedroom in Treasure Crest Executive Condominium at Anchorvale Crescent. There are white walls, white furniture, white curtains, and even white decorations. There is a lot of white, but it's not boring or old-fashioned. This gesture is intended to create visual order and reduce distraction, as well as create the perfect space for meditation and increase the satisfaction of a cosy home.

There are spots of colour, like small decorations or flowers that can give life to this house. The whole monochromatic idea is to create something airier and more spacious. Besides, using so much white creates a neutral space for different tastes. White can never be a failure. People from all around the world can find a home in this house that can tell the story of who you are and what you love.

Boutique-Style Living

There is beauty in simplicity. Star Stark is the concept of the whole idea of minimalist style. You can design something beautiful by using fewer colors, fewer decorations, fewer patterns. It is not about using the same color in every room or pattern throughout the house, but it is about balancing what you like, what you need and what your house needs, to create the perfect home.

You can transform a small space in something gracious if you use the right colors and the right materials. White is a classic choice, but not boring. White brings you peace, comfort, and light – literally because it reflects and scatters all the visible wavelengths of light. It brings to your place elegance and refinement.

Nowadays, people are looking for brighter places, lighter places, and everything that comforts them. It is the right way to create what people are looking for – using white, neutral colors, and perfect decorations. You need a little aesthetic sense and a specific orientation of the space to convert something small into a boutique-style apartment. This is the perfect arrangement of the furniture and the existence of large and beautiful windows. About the furniture: it is better to choose simple models and neutral colors to avoid creating negative distractions. By focusing on cute little decorations, we will add a plus to our design, elegant vibes and keep the minimalist style.

This house is a reflection of contemporary design, which has a global appeal and is suitable for everyone. White is never old-fashioned, never dull, and never hated. It is bright, warm, and peaceful. When you see a house, it is important to make a first impression, because your house should be able to offer you the feeling of a perfect home. To prove that the contemporary design is inviting and attractive, we present our 3 Bedroom apartment located in Loft Natura at Bishan.

Calm & Collected

If there were a single thing to choose for describing the 3 Bedroom in Treasure Crest Executive Condominium located at 54 Anchorvale Crescent, it would be LIGHT. If you look through the pictures, you will stop at those large windows and instantly, you will want to live there and look at the world through them! Little windows are cute, but big windows are breathtaking. And if they offer you a great view, they are the reason why you should live there. These are gorgeous!

The contemporary style is present in the entire house, and you can see the beauty everywhere. There were neutral colours used, modern furnishings, warmed with touches still subtle like luxurious upholstery, colourful artwork, and fresh greenery.

In each room, there is something that adds visual interest, a focal point. Neutral tones are used to create an environment that combines elegance and luxury in such a classy way. It is not too extravagance, and it is the ideal amount to create the perfect place. Based on the Construed Mimic concept, "less is more." This house is meant to be the ideal place to escape the noisy city. Home is where you can hear your thoughts, and this house aims to give you peace, silence, and relaxation.

Although some walls are black, the place is still airy and spacious, as they are strategically chosen. The beautiful thing about white walls, white furnishings, or black furnishings: it allows you to play with colourful details, colourful decorations, to keep the things beautiful and not at all without style. It is the little things in the house that create the cosiest home.

Sweet Scented Serene

Every house has something different, something that stands out and make it special. Every house has that element that makes everything spectacular. The element of the 4 Bedroom in Kingsford Waterbay at Upper Serangoon View is represented by the spiral staircase, which is known for their luxuriousness and artistic styles. The spiral alone attracts all the attention, so by adding lights, you just add elegance.

The whole house has been designed using contrasts combined to create a very pleasant environment from this space. By using natural light and adding artificial light sources, you allow the light to create its own game full of grace. We also use beautiful floor tiles and parquets that allow the light to reflect. There are different textures, different patterns, together creating a comfort of life with a taste of luxury and a Sweet scented serene. You would not think that so many combinations really work, but the general idea is to find a balance between what is too much and what is too little, between what you like and what your home needs.

It's easy to create the perfect place when you're dealing with essential details such as the layout of the space and the dimensions of the furniture in this house, the goal was to enlarge the space of the room by combining the common space between the bedroom and the master bedroom as a walk-in-wardrobe. Also, another aspect is choosing an infinite bed with an elevated platform. Lights were added to the bed to calm the sleeping area.
